April 22, 2009, Norristown, PA — George M. Aman, III, and Alan W. Flenner, attorneys with High Swartz LLP in Norristown, will be featured speakers at the Pennsylvania Bar Institute's Municipal Law Colloquium, to be held May 8 – 9 at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center in Hershey. The seminar will explore updates in municipal law that are relevant to both new and experienced solicitors.

Mr. Aman, who has specialized in the field of municipal finance and municipal law for more than 25 years, will lead a panel discussion on "The Structure and Operation of Municipal Authorities." Topics to be addressed include rationale for creation, board composition and powers, officers and employees, rates and regulation, operations, contracts, financing, reorganization, and termination. Among his many professional accomplishments, Mr. Aman served two separate terms as Chairman of the Municipal Law Section of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, and was Counsel to the Pennsylvania Municipal Authorities Association for 14 years.

Mr. Flenner will present the workshop, "Sustainable Development and Green Building Regulations," which will provide an overview of sustainable development and explore the legal aspects of municipal green building regulations. He concentrates his practice on matters associated with the built and natural environments including environmental, land use, and municipal law, and advises municipalities on local environmental regulation involving stormwater management, sustainable development, and green building issues.
